SCHEDULING ORDER

Re: Dkt. No. 50

The Court has reviewed the Joint Case Management Statement. In the interest of securing the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of this action under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 1, the Court rules as follows:

- 1) Fact discovery is open and the parties should not delay in propounding discovery.
- 2) The case schedules proposed by both parties are excessively long. The Court suggests trial be set January 11, 2016, or April 18, 2016. The parties must confer with each other and pick one of those dates, or explain why the case cannot be ready by April 2016.
